

Soul Awakening

There is a compulsion to think and it becomes our habit.
But there is a dimension of no thought in yourself and this is your stillness; your personal serenity.

The mind is always extracting meaning from its surroundings; conceptualising itself with the environment. But there is a deeper truth that lies behind the information of our world. When we awaken out from thinking we connect with the true sense of being fully present—like your first kiss—you feel more than alive—you feel greater than the sum of yourself—like there is an even greater dimension to you, outside of your thinking. And this is the power of presence in you.

Peliguin books have been designed and created by the artists who have captured the energy of presence so that the pictures and the words carry that power and awaken the presence in you. These special books do not try and convey more knowledge or more information on enlightenment, rather, they are enlightenment. They are created from the state of being still and fully awake in the serenity of now. Peliguin books take you beyond words to a world that exists only in present consciousness.

Puri is a children's book that tells the story of love and friendship, kindness and compassion of the soul. Children are usually already awake to their own presence and so it is the child who connects their presence with their parent or reader's presence while the book is being read. Through the eyes of a child we begin to learn the virtues for spiritual transformation!

The Garden is the embodiment of being fully awake and fully present in the moment and although the mind will at first try and extract the meaning of the words, the words take you deeper into yourselves until what remains of the words is the power of presence that they carry. There is no need to be concerned with the information of the words as going beyond them awakens the presence in you.

VOYAGER is a more practical spiritual handbook for achieving this level of awareness and teaches becoming fully present by removing the limiting, restrictive patterns of the mind; the abstract concept of the self. It also guides you through the act of removing the pain from your past which is blocking you from being in the power of the present moment, which is who you really are—your self existing now.

Nowhere else can enlightenment be found but being fully present now. When you have searched and come to realise this, then the end of all exploring will be to arrive where you started; then you realise you are already here. The achievement of being fully present is when we give up the search for it. Then we see truth hiding in plain view. Using the same intensity and focus when we look back in our past or project ourselves out into our future should now become the means to bring us to this moment, and we embrace the now. You cannot become something you already are.
